

Make for something/somewhere

Make for something to result in something or make something possible; to cause a particular result or situation

- Blowing snow made for poor visibility on the roads last night.
- Having faster computers would make for a more efficient system.
- Constant arguing doesn't make for a happy marriage.
- Everyone agreed that filming inside a chocolate factory would make for good television.
- Both teams are on good form, which should make for a great game.

Make for somewhere

to go directly toward someone or something:

- They split up and the man made for the subway.
- They made for the centre of town.
- I think it's time we made for home.
